Will it be a big hit?

UNDERBELLY actor Daniel Amalm and Packed To The Rafters star Jessica Marais have made the leap to the big screen in the new Australian film Two Fists, One Heart.

Amalm, who appeared as underworld figure Dino Dibra in the first series of Underbelly, has been cast as another tough guy – rising boxer Anthony Argo – in the film written by former Golden Gloves champ Rai Fazio.

Mime on Melrose

ASHLEE Simpson-Wentz is moving to Melrose Place.

The 24-year-old singer will join the cast of the TV show as a small-town girl with a “shrewd sex kitten” within, Entertainment

Weekly first reported on www.ew.com Monday.

“I’m thrilled to be joining the cast of Melrose Place and I look forward to being a part of its new generation of residents,” she said in a statement in People magazine.

Fox stays optimistic

SINCE his diagnosis with Parkinson’s disease cut short his acting career, Michael J Fox has every reason to be a pessimist.

Instead, the Canadian-born actor is doing a special for the US television network ABC about the nature of optimism.

Fox explores science and his own personal experiences – he says the past decade since his diagnosis has been among his happiest. Fox starred in the sitcoms Family Ties and Spin City, as well as the Back to the Future movie series.

For his special, Fox visits the Himalayan nation of Bhutan, which he says is unusually committed to the well-being of its citizens. Michael J Fox: Adventures of an Incurable Optimist airs in May.

Rocky's fairer sex mark Womens Day

A LARGE crowd enjoyed proceedings at the International Womens Day luncheon at Travelodge Rockhampton on Monday.

The luncheon was organised by the Regional

Womens Network CQ.
